If God predestinated everything to happen, then why even pray for so	mething to happen?