

Many religions accuse Christians for believing salvation without works yet can unfairly sin against God.